MINERALS AND ENERGY

- Himalayan Salt contains the same 80 traces of minerals and elements that are found in the human body; that alone is quite impressive!
- A few of these minerals include sodium chloride, sulphate, calcium, potassium, and magnesium.
- When consuming this salt, you are getting less sodium intake per serving than regular table salt, as it's less refined, and the pieces are larger.
- Himalayan Pink salt has less sodium per serving because the crystals or flakes take up less room than the highly processed table salt variety.
- Mother's Magic Himalayan Pink salt is a source of vibrational energy, because of its unique cellular structure.
- The minerals in Himalayan Pink Salt exist in colloidal form, which means that they are small enough for our body cells to easily absorb.
